PART 1 TECHNICAL SPECIFICATIONS - WHAT DOES EFSA NEED TO BUY THROUGH THIS PROCUREMENT PROCEDURE?

1.1 BACKGROUND

The European Food Safety Authority (hereinafter EFSA) is an EU-funded European agency that operates independently of the European Commission, the European Parliament and Member States. EFSA was established in 2002 following a series of food crises in the late 1990s as an independent source of scientific advice and communication on risks associated with the food chain. The Agency was formally established by the European Union under Regulation 178/2002 of the General Food Law.

The EFSA Strategy 2027 entails three strategic objectives:

1. Deliver trustworthy scientific assessment and communication of risk from farm to fork.
2. Build partnerships for scientific advice of the future.
3. Empower people and inspire a culture to realise EFSA's strategy.

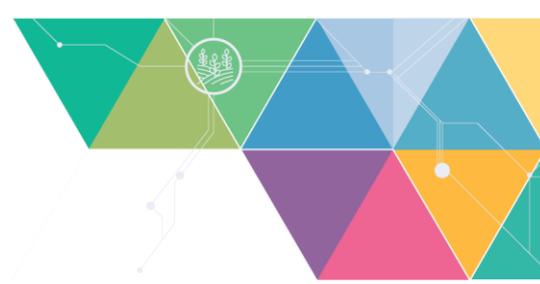

In this context, EFSA clearly states as core values:

- Excellence
- Independence
- Openness
- Accountability
- Cooperation

In September 2019 the Transparency Regulation was formally published in the Official Journal of the European Union and amends the General Food Law (Regulation 178/2002). With the Transparency Regulation EFSA aims at:

- Increasing transparency in EFSA's work;
- Revisiting EFSA's processes to allow for the implementation of the new Regulation;
- Redesigning EFSA's scientific processes and methods to address future risk assessment challenges;
- Introducing new data and metadata formats;
- Strengthening collaboration with other institutions and paying more attention to public opinion to foster an open and trustful dialogue.

The Human Capital Unit in EFSA is a strategic partner in achieving EFSA's core objectives by selecting, developing, engaging and retaining the right talents in alignment with EFSA's values, strategies and the needs of internal and external stakeholders. One of its key objectives is enabling managers to lead the organisation forward by ensuring they have the right skills and competencies.

1.2 OBJECTIVES

The aim of this procurement procedure is to conclude a framework contract for four years with one contractor. The framework contract will be implemented through specific contracts or order forms. Each specific contract or order form will set out the specific conditions for performing the individual assignment.

The main objective of the present procurement procedure is to select a provider for the development, delivery and evaluation of a Leadership Development Programme for EFSA's managerial community over the next four years. Components of the programme can be attended also by staff in positions such as Programme Managers, Chief Scientists and HR Business Partners.

The Managerial Community is a diverse group comprising of approximately 65 Managers, divided into three separate management layers: Senior Management (4 Heads of Department and the Executive Director), Middle Management (20 Heads of Unit) and Front Line (40 Team Leaders).

Heads of Department manages EFSA's Departments in which there are several Business Units. They work in close collaboration with the Heads of Units and currently have a span of control of approximately 50 -145 staff members. Heads of Departments play a pivotal role in driving the overall vision, strategic positioning, and preparedness of the organisation.

Heads of Unit manage EFSA's Business Units, each comprising of several teams. They work in close collaboration with the Team Leaders and currently have a span of control of approximately 7-36 staff members. Heads of Units are key not only in managing the Unit's people but also in ensuring operational effectiveness through the implementation of their Unit workplans in alignment with EFSA's strategy.

Team Leaders manage teams of approximately 3-12 staff members. As the ones working closely with their people, their role is key, especially in a virtual way of working, in bringing out the best in their people through people management. Some smaller Units may operate with no Team Leaders.

The numbers shared in this section, in relation to the span of control of people, may change as EFSA is currently reviewing its organisational structure. This may result in a different number of Departments and/or Business Units which will affect the respective number of managers in each managerial layer. The new organisational structure should be known by mid-2021 and will come into force on January 1st, 2022.

1.2.1 Specific Objectives

The specific objective is the development, delivery and evaluation of a customised Leadership Development Programme for the 3 differentiated managerial layers.

The programme should:

- Be effective by offering activities that will fit with EFSA’s organisational context and leadership development needs;
- Bridge EFSA’s strategic goals with professional and personal development in the area of people management and leadership as per their job profiles and the processes they are managing;
- Accompany and equip managers throughout their journey to leadership through individual, group and organisational learning;
- Shape and inspire EFSA’s managers to be role models that work together to deliver as “one”;
- Connect cutting-edge academic research with EFSA’s daily leadership roles and organisational activities/complexities, applying academic managerial research to EFSA business context;
- Strengthen individuals’ capacity to recognise and discuss leadership approaches in the context of others, exploring emotional awareness and inter-personal communication to build efficient professional relationships and partnerships;
- Enable managers deliver results through people management.

1.2.2 Managerial competencies

EFSA has set competencies<sup>2</sup> for each managerial layer which are cornerstones for the development of a successful leadership development programme. These can be summarised here below:

During the last years, EFSA has been developing its managerial community in being adept at creating a culture that makes EFSA a desirable workplace by following 7 key managerial principles:

While managerial competencies and principles are still very relevant, considering the ever-changing context where EFSA is called to operate in, such as the recent Pandemic crisis, the challenges it has brought to the managerial community, and the challenges of the Strategy 2027, there is an increasing need to focus also on:

- Developing out of the box and ecosystem thinking;
- Building 360° collaboration and partnerships;
- Leading teams remotely;
- Enhancing digital maturity.

The above is indicative and new imperatives or trends need to be taken into account throughout the implementation of the contract.

1.2.3 How do we envision learning to be in the Leadership Development Programme

Learner – centric: learners have an active role not only in determining the learning content, but also in choosing from a variety of technological interfaces how they will learn and consume the content.

Modular: modules are part of the whole learning journey but can also stand on their own and be attended by participants from other learning programmes. Here one can find bite-sized learning as well as more lengthy learning modules in the form of face to face or synchronous or asynchronous online sessions.

Agile: allowing learners to learn from anyplace, anytime and directly linked to what they immediately need. In addition, there is a constant feedback loop with the learners so that the content and format can be adjusted to their imminent needs.

Experiential: learning is an active process which engages the learner and not a passive process that happens to the learner. In this sense, learning happens also in the flow of work and is not an add on activity.

Individual and convergent: each learner has an individual learning path and owns it by taking responsibility for own growth. Despite the fact that self-learning becomes more and more prevalent, it is also key to remember that managers are on their learning path together, connected to a common vision and they can tap into the collective learning and intelligence acquired. Thus, developing communities of learners is very important and although each managerial layer will have their own learning path, these paths will converge.

Continuous: with technological advancements, what we know today may become obsolete tomorrow which calls for a constant need for leaders to develop themselves and their teams. Especially in the ever-changing scientific but not only landscape, staying abreast of scientific, sector and business developments and embracing a lifelong learning mode is key. So is instilling a growth mindset that helps the learner keep pace with the constant changes.

Linked to business outcomes: learning has timely application and direct connection to impacting specific organisational objectives.

A change process: learning in the end stretches, improves self-awareness, challenges mindsets and builds personal mastery to reach full potential.

1.2.4 Services to be delivered

Diagnosis of the specific learning needs

The successful provider is called to conduct a comprehensive learning needs analysis based on the competencies and managerial principles described above. Specifically, the provider is called to propose a methodology of identifying the areas and key competencies needed to be developed that will enable EFSA managers to lead the organisation forward. This must include but is not limited to:

- In-depth interviews with EFSA's Senior Managers (ED and Heads of Departments);
- Targeted focus groups per managerial layer;
- Individual (360) assessments.

The assessment tool used will be tailor-made to EFSA's needs by assessing EFSA's managerial competencies. From the 360-assessment process an individual report for each participant and for each managerial layer will derive; the outcome of the 360 will be interpreted and discussed with a coach. The end outcome of the 360-feedback process will be an individual learning plan for each manager.

Design of the programme

The content of the leadership development programme will be determined by the outcome of the diagnosis made. Specifically, the content will be driven by the assessment of each managerial layer against the competences and by taking into account EFSA's context, strategy, priorities and future challenges. The programme will include three learning paths for each managerial layer as well as common learning activities as to solidify EFSA's managerial learning community. In addition, in the design phase learning objectives will be set along with meaningful learning KPIs and a baseline against which the programme will be evaluated in the end.

Delivery of the learning programme

The provider is called to deliver and implement all component of the programme as per the design of the programme (please see section 1.2.5).

Evaluation of the learning programme

The provider is called to evaluate the effectiveness, efficiency and impact of the learning programme and make recommendations for future learning activities. In order to establish the impact of the programme the provider will need to propose an evaluation methodology which will include the methodologies used during the diagnosis:

- In-depth interviews with EFSA's Senior Managers (ED and Heads of Departments)
- Targeted focus groups per managerial layer
- Individual (360) assessment

The above is not exhaustive, and the provider can propose other means of evaluation.

The provider may be called to undertake a mid-journey evaluation, by running a 360 assessment for each manager. The outcome of this mid-journey evaluation is a short report demonstrating the change in managerial competencies' proficiency levels. The provider will need to adjust the programme in terms of content or methodology in order take into account the outcome of this evaluation.

The outcome of the final evaluation will be an elaborated report describing the changes in managerial competencies' proficiency levels, how learning KPIs (qualitative and quantitative) have been met, the return on investment for EFSA and recommendations for the future.

1.2.5 Components of the leadership development programme

Face to face formal learning in form of either classroom learning or synchronous online learning

Face to face formal learning is an important component of the programme. Each learning path will comprise of several training sessions delivered in a classroom/ face to face format either at EFSA's premises in Parma or online via an online platform.

Each managerial layer will have its specific sessions to attend but there may be common modules for all managerial community.

The length of each training module will depend on the curriculum to be covered and needs to be agreed with EFSA. Training sessions can be complemented by additional microlearning online modules or other learning modalities. Normally, a training session requires 2 trainers, and the successful tenderer would need to ensure adequate support throughout the delivery of the training sessions as well as training administration.

Online learning

Due to the “new way of working” created by the pandemic and the limited availability of EFSA’s managerial population, many of the training modules should be offered in a blended approach, allowing the participants to attend asynchronous classes on their own. Thus, the provider needs to make a proposal on the right mix of methodologies (synchronous instructor led versus online, being it article, video or e-learning modules). EFSA would expect at least 20% of the learning offering to be online and self-paced. Furthermore, the provider should also consider gamification, social learning and give access to online forums, facilitated and managed by trainers, the latter being a crucial element in creating a managerial community of practice.

Course Management

The vendor needs to provide a Learning Management System where participants can join online modules and access study material and further reading. The learning management system will be also used for participants’ course registration (face to face and online courses) and hosting of all training material (programme content might be migrated to EFSA’s Learning Management system when in place and operational). Redirection from EFSA’s Learning Management systems to the one of the provider should be possible without the requirement of inserting another password (SSO and AICC capable). In addition, the learning management system must cater for seamless desktop, tablet, and mobile experiences, and be available 24/7. As concerns the storage localisation and data access requirements concerning the Learning Management System or any online system used, please see Part 1.6 of these tender specifications.

Experiential learning

The provider will be called to create the conditions for participants to apply the knowledge gained from formal learning and learn through their managerial experience. Simulations can prove very effective in this regard and so can the use of learning or reflective logs or diaries. In addition, learners may be called, where appropriate, to develop short individual and group assignments supported by the provider’s subject matter experts. Beyond formal learning the provider will offer, where necessary, hands-on experimental learning in alternative settings (e.g. in retreat modes or activity based). As part of the leadership learning journey participants can learn on the job by short or more lengthily exchanges to other Departments and Units or even outside EFSA. Through the 360 assessment and the development of the individual learning plans, job mobility and staff exchanges can be identified as appropriate learning solution for particular participants. The specific implementation process will be managed by EFSA directly.

Coaching

Coaching will also be a key component of the learning programme as it is seen more and more as leadership development accelerator. Coaching will be offered based on demand, to new managers (irrespective of grade) and where it is assessed to bring value on a participant's learning journey.

A standard individual coaching package consists of 10 hours of online coaching with a professional coach. All coaches must be professional coaches, certified by a recognised coaching association such as the International Coaching Federation or the Association of Coaching. The coachee will choose his/her coach from a coaching book/catalogue which entails the coachees bio and area of expertise. One hour will be dedicated to goal setting for the coaching where the line manager of the coachee can get involved.

A standard group coaching package consists of 14 hours of team coaching and 2 hours of follow up discussion with the line manager. This service will be offered partially on EFSA premises, and partially online. EFSA can also choose a complete online delivery.

Below are some indicative coaching topics:

- Vision and strategy
- Decision making
- Working with team and people
- Communication
- Self-management and self-development
- Networking
- Adjusting to a new position
- Managing transitions and change for self and teams
- Autonomy & Accountability
- Resilience & Agility
- Creating an inclusive environment
- Continuous improvement

In addition to managers being the recipient of coaching, the provider will also be called to develop the capabilities of managers to be coaches themselves for their teams and peers. A "Manager as a coach" learning programme will be offered to the managerial community along with a tailored made coaching programme targeted to HR professionals to increase HR's capability to act as internal coaches to managers. Both programmes will include approximately 65 training hours each spread over two years and will follow a curriculum that is accredited by a renowned coaching institution such as the International Coaching Federation or the Association for Coaching. Each programme will offer a good balance between theory and practice and will include individual supervision/support sessions. Participants will be given a certificate of completion and a detailed description of the attended curriculum which will allow them, along with practical experience and on own initiative, to be accredited from a coaching institution of their choice (e.g. Associate Professional Coach of the International Coaching Federation).

Masterclasses / managerial events

- a. Identifying high calibre speakers

Leadership masterclasses and/or corporate managerial events are opportunities for the whole managerial community to discuss, reflect, and learn together. These events will be delivered outside EFSA's premises, normally within Parma region, by high calibre business speakers.

Below are some indicative masterclass/ managerial events topics, already delivered:

- Leading in times of disruption
- Innovation in the public sector
- The leader as trust builder
- Collaboration, cooperation and co-creation
- Strategy and culture: why do they matter

These events can be categorised in three types:

- Type A: Masterclasses with internationally renowned high calibre speakers
These masterclasses, aimed at the managerial community, will be delivered by internationally renowned high calibre speakers who hold at least 5 years of experience in their field of expertise. These speakers are thought leaders, authors with a series of publications at their hand or strong track record of conference presence.
- Type B: Masterclasses with experts for the managerial community
These masterclasses, aimed at the managerial community, will be delivered by qualified experts in their area of competence who hold at least 5 years of relevant experience.
- Type C: Masterclasses with experts for all staff
These masterclasses, aimed at all staff or for specific target groups, will be delivered by qualified experts in their area of competence who hold at least 5 years of relevant experience.

b. Organising masterclasses / managerial events

The provider will be called to undertake the full organisation of the event, including the booking of the venue and catering.

The provider shall have the capability to identify, negotiate with and contract the speakers based on EFSA need, but EFSA may also propose speakers. EFSA will pay a standard fee covering the identification of the speaker (including relevant negotiations) (a) and the organisation of the event (b). The actual cost of the speaker itself will be reimbursed to the provider based on supporting documents (contract, invoices etc.)

Certification at the end of the programme

At the end of the programme a certification will be awarded to the participants who:

- a. Have attended at least 80% of the programme, and
- b. Have completed their individual learning plans which derived from the initial 360 assessment.

1.2.6 Important elements to consider

- Onboarding of new managers

While EFSA's organisational structure will change and new managers may be appointed at a later stage and after the commencement of the programme, it is important to onboard them effectively and swiftly on the leadership development programme. The provider will be called to develop a proposal on how the onboarding can be done which should include a combination of the services described in sections 1.2.4 and 1.2.5.

- Adopting the programme to new needs derived

This can be ensured by having mechanisms in place such a governance board that will meet frequently to discuss the programme's progress against the initial objectives and to ensure the programme is adjusted to new critical emerging learning needs. The frequency of these meetings will need to be decided jointly with EFSA.

1.2.7 Responsibilities of the contractor

The contractor is responsible for:

- Deliver the services as described in section 1.2.4 and 1.2.5
- Set up a governance mechanism jointly with EFSA in order to ensure there are measures in place for successful completion of the project.
- Design and deliver a communication plan consisting of compelling communication messages concerning the programme and the different learning activities to promote participants' engagement.
- Training administration. Specifically:
  - The contractor is in charge of all course registrations and monitoring of attendance via an activity tracking system. The contractor has also the obligation to produce reports on course attendance at the end of each training activity and upon request; any repeated or prolonged absence of participants, which will result in the participant attending less than 50% of the curriculum will be considered as non-attendance. As concerns the storage localisation and data access requirements concerning any online system, please see Part 1.6 of these tender specifications.
  - For invoicing purposes, the contractor shall provide all the evidence related to activities performed during the reference period. (e.g. tracking report).
  - All the activities and costs related to booking of rooms and technical support for courses outside EFSA's premises shall be organised and covered by the contractor. When courses are outside EFSA's premises, the contractor will ensure that a training room, appropriate for the training in terms of size, minimum technical equipment and technical support is booked. Specifically, the tenderer must provide, upon request, availability of premises with the following requirements: at least one auditorium with a capacity of minimum 75 people, Wi-Fi connections and interactive dashboards; at least 2 training rooms for face-to-face learning activities and workshops with a capacity of minimum 25 people seated; the facilities must be reachable from Parma with maximum distance of 50 kms.

- Technical support

When the training courses are outside EFSA's premises the contractor will ensure that the below technical requirements are met, and that technical support is available:

- one meeting room for the full course equipped with 1 PC, beamer/screens, audio/video, flip charts;
- Free Wi-Fi connectivity for individual PCs of the participants and trainers (at least in the main room and public areas)
- The contractor must provide catering services (lunch and two coffee breaks for a full day event) for the participants for the managerial events and any training courses delivered outside EFSA's premises.

- Evaluation of activities on training/ coaching/ managerial events

The contractor will use a modern multiple level assessment methodology for face to face courses, online synchronous training, coaching and managerial event. Participants will be able to rate online content and resources. As concerns the storage localisation and data access requirements concerning any online system, please see Part 1.6 of these tender specifications.

Particularly, in terms of face to face training and especially for training courses consisting of multiple sessions the contractor needs to report on the quality of the activity (e.g. in terms of trainer, methodology, materials etc.) just after its delivery. In case of low score in any of the set and agreed criteria, the contractor will need to proceed with mitigation and improvement actions for the training sessions yet to be delivered.

Concerning the provision of coaching and online learning the contractor needs to produce a report on the quality of the activities and in case of dissatisfaction proceed with mitigation and improvement actions.

- Penalties based on feedback on training/ coaching package/ managerial events

At the end of each activity (e.g. one face to face training, one coaching package, managerial event), the contractor will submit a report showing the feedback from the participants. The questionnaire and evaluation scale will be agreed in advance between the contractor and EFSA before the first training/coaching/managerial event takes place. A threshold will be set and if for each specific activity the average score will be below the threshold, EFSA will reserve the right to apply a penalty of 30% of the cost of the specific activity.

- Replacement of trainers/facilitators/coach

The contractor must ensure the delivery of the activities in all circumstances. Should the trainer(s)/facilitator(s)/coach not be available (e.g. illness or travel disruptions, etc) the contractor will need to ensure a suitable replacement (to be agreed beforehand by EFSA) in order to ensure the activity is delivered at the scheduled date and time.

- Cancellation of activities

Failure to ensure the activity is delivered at the scheduled date and time, a penalty of 100% of the cost of this specific activity will be applied unless EFSA agrees to reschedule the activity.

- Invoicing timeliness

The contractor shall submit the invoice together with the related deliverables within 15 working days after the end date of a group of activities/ activity as mentioned in the Specific contract/ order form (e.g. after one quarter)

EFSA reserves the right to apply EUR 100 of penalty to each delayed invoice.

- Availability of the learning management platform (excluded planned maintenance)

On a quarterly basis, the contractor will send to EFSA a report about platform availability and access incident. EFSA reserves the rights to carry out independent platform availability controls. If during the period of reference, the availability of the platform is less than 95%, EFSA reserves the right to apply a penalty of EUR 200 per day.

1.2.6 Responsibilities of EFSA

EFSA will appoint a Learning Programme Manager and ensure there are adequate resources available for successful implementation of the programme. It will also support the contractor in providing adequate information about past development initiatives for the managerial community and help the provider understand EFSA's context.

EFSA will also be in charge of:

Booking of rooms

When courses are inside EFSA's premises, EFSA will ensure that a training room, appropriate for the training in terms of size and technical equipment is booked.

Technical support

When the trainings are hosted at EFSA's premises in Parma, EFSA will provide the following general facilities:

- One meeting room for the full course equipped with 1 PC, beamer/screens, audio/video, flip charts;
- Wi-Fi connectivity for individual PCs of the participants and trainers (at least in the main room and public areas);

The provision of catering services to the contractor and the participants in the training is not required and will not be provided by EFSA.

Cancellation from EFSA of a specific activity

- Up to 14 days before the activity: no charges
- From 13 days up to 4 days before the activity: 50% of the cost linked to this specific activity

1.4 INFORMATION ON THE CONTRACT

Nature of expense	services
Type of contract	framework (FWC)
Type of FWC	multiple FWC in cascade

Maximum number of possible framework contractors: 3

Place of performance: EFSA premises/ Parma region / contractor's premises (for preparation)

Duration of FWC

One year + automatic renewal up to 3 times for an overall maximum duration of four consecutive years.

Budget information

The financial ceiling available for specific contracts/order forms under the framework contract during an overall maximum period of 4 consecutive years is 2.000.000 €. A contingency of 10% and possible price indexations are already included in this ceiling.

Possible increase of FWC envelope

In accordance with Annex I, Section 2, article 11.1 e) of the Financial Regulation, EFSA reserves the right to launch a future negotiated procedure with the contractor chosen as a result of this call for tender, for new services consisting in the repetition of similar services during the three years following the signature of the original framework contract. The increase will not go beyond 50% of the original envelope of 2.000.000 €.

Price indexation

The mechanism for the indexation of prices is set out in the draft framework contract.

Framework contract implementation modalities

The framework contract will be implemented using Specific Contracts / Order Forms.

FWC with cascade: The FWC is implemented as follows: EFSA order services by sending an Order form by e-mail to the contractor who is ranked first in the cascade.

Within 2 working days, the contractor must either:

- (a) send the Order form back to the contracting authority signed and dated; or
- (b) send an explanation of why it cannot accept the order.

EFSA may liaise beforehand (before preparing the order form) with the contractor in order to clearly define the services. When EFSA requests an offer (before preparing the order form), the provider will have at least 5 working days to prepare the offer and send it back to EFSA.

If the contractor does not accept the order or fails to observe the deadline or if it is in a situation of conflicting interests that may negatively affect the performance of the order form or specific contract (see Article II.7), the contracting authority may place the order with the next contractor in the cascade.

If the contractor repeatedly refuses to sign order forms or specific contracts or repeatedly fails to send them back on time, the contractor may be considered in breach of its obligations under this FWC as set out in Article II.18.1 (c).

Signing the order forms:

Normally EFSA signs the order form as a first party electronically.

The contractor shall dispatch to EFSA the order form signed by their responsible legal representative within a maximum of 2 working days of receipt.

PAYMENTS:

Interim payment

The contractor remains solely responsible and liable for obtaining all necessary authorizations and rights to use, reproduce and share the publications provided to EFSA

PARTS OF RESULTS PRE-EXISTING THE CONTRACT

EFSA does not acquire ownership or any license of pre-existing rights not incorporated in the deliverables. The full ownership is limited to the deliverables, which might include licensed pre-existing rights on excerpts, parts, texts etc., if fully or partially incorporated in the final deliverables.

The draft contract in Annex 2 contains further provisions on ownership of intellectual property rights. All quotations or information the tenderer provides in the technical and
